Leadership Workshop

Dale MacPhee, General Manager, Waldorf Astoria Edinburgh – The Caledonian

Valerie Lederer, Marketing Executive, Criton

women in tourism

Presentation Topics & Discussions

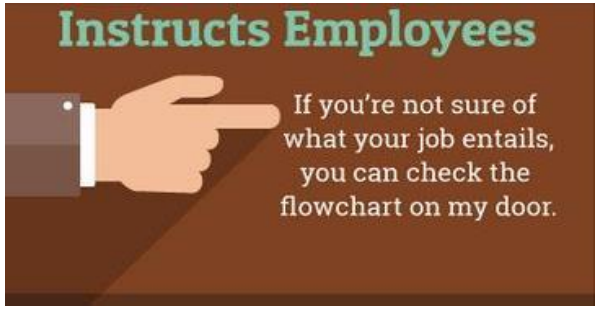
- Manager or Leader
- What Makes a Great Leader?
- Leadership Characteristics
- What Traits Matter Most
- Leadership Styles
- Developing Your Style
- Great Leadership Books
- Millennials and Leadership
- Leadership Survey
- Questions

Manager or Leader

women in tourism

Manager

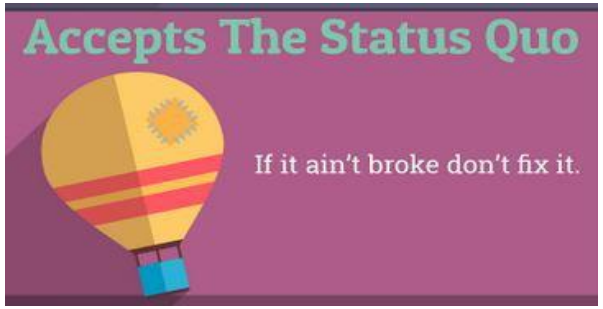
Leader



Manager or Leader

women in tourism

Manager



Leader

Manager or Leader

women in tourism

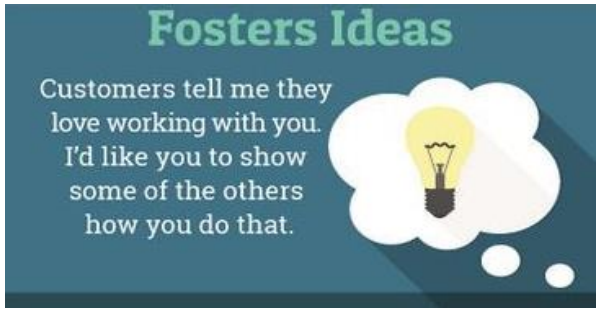
Manager

Leader

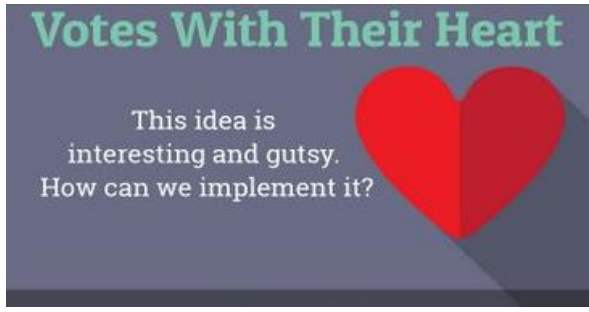
Manager or Leader

women in tourism

Manager



Leader



women in tourism

Characteristics – Tribe Shepherd

women in tourism

Low Ranking Bosses

- Secretive
- Dictatorial
- Micro managers
- Order Takers
- Turf focused
- Blamer
- CYA mentality
- Untrustworthy
- Scared

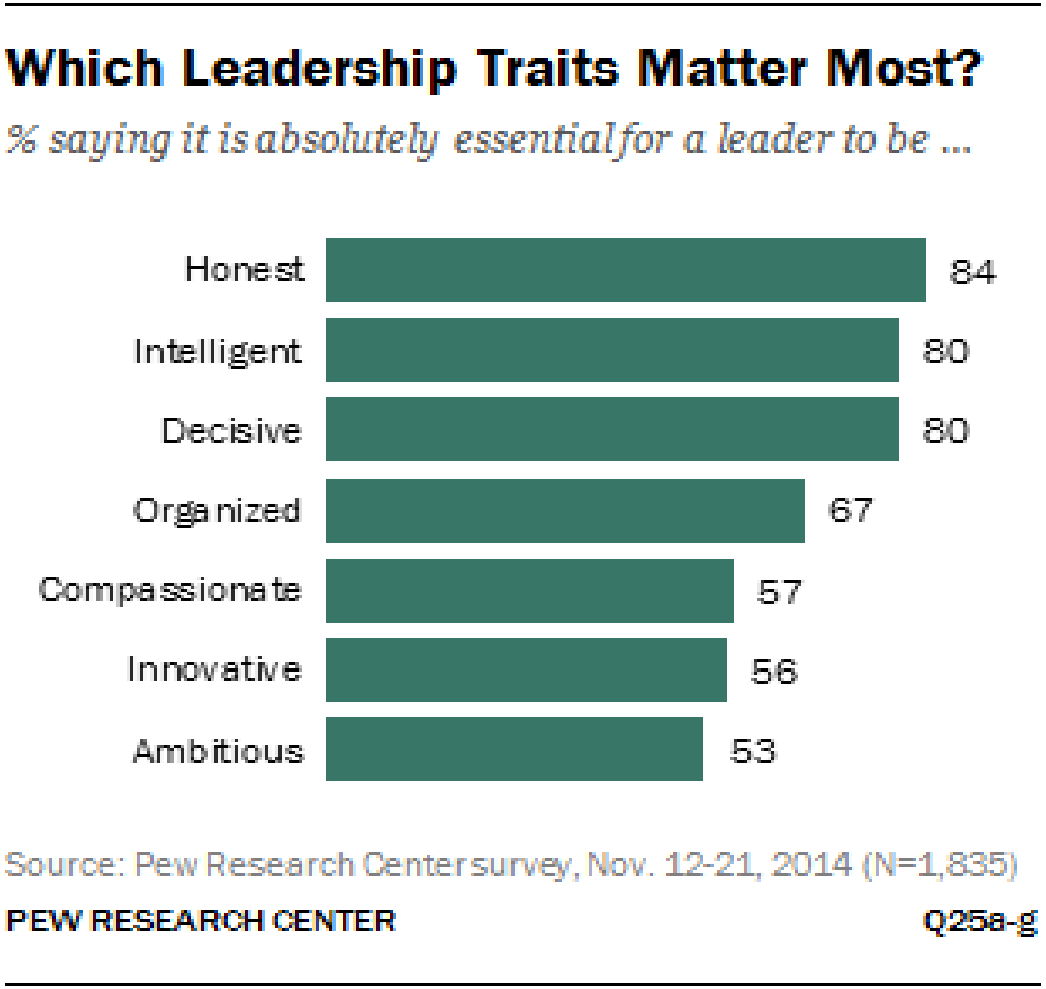
High Ranking Leaders

- ✓ Fair
- ✓ Knowledgeable
- ✓ Trusting
- ✓ Risk Taker
- ✓ Says Thank you
- ✓ Capable
- ✓ Fun
- ✓ Negotiator
- ✓ Confident
- ✓ Patient
- ✓ Problem Solver

It's not so much what the Bad leaders DO that make them bad leaders, it's often what they don't do. They don't trust, they don't seek input, they don't take risks, they don't challenge authority.

Mattered Traits

women in tourism



7 Leadership Styles

women in tourism

Leadership Styles- Developing your style

women in tourism

1. Get Out of Your Comfort Zone

If you want to be a great leader, you need to take small steps and trust your path – move out of your self-made comfort zone.

2. Develop Your Soft Skills

We're mostly focused on developing professional skills. That's great, but we're neglecting another important aspect. Authenticity, positivity, and confidence – those soft skills you can develop.

3. Use the Chance; Write about Your Experiences

Write a working diary, every single day. You can even create a blog, where you'll share your experience with a wider audience. Writing skills are crucial for proper leadership.

Leadership Styles- Developing your style

women in tourism

4. Learn

Everything around us is an eye-opener. No matter how much you think you know, you end up realizing there are many things you don't know.
Maintain that hunger for learning.

5. Build a Network

You'll have to be in contact with people from all walks of life. There's a name for that: networking and it's extremely important for developing leadership skills.

6. Be Passionate about Giving

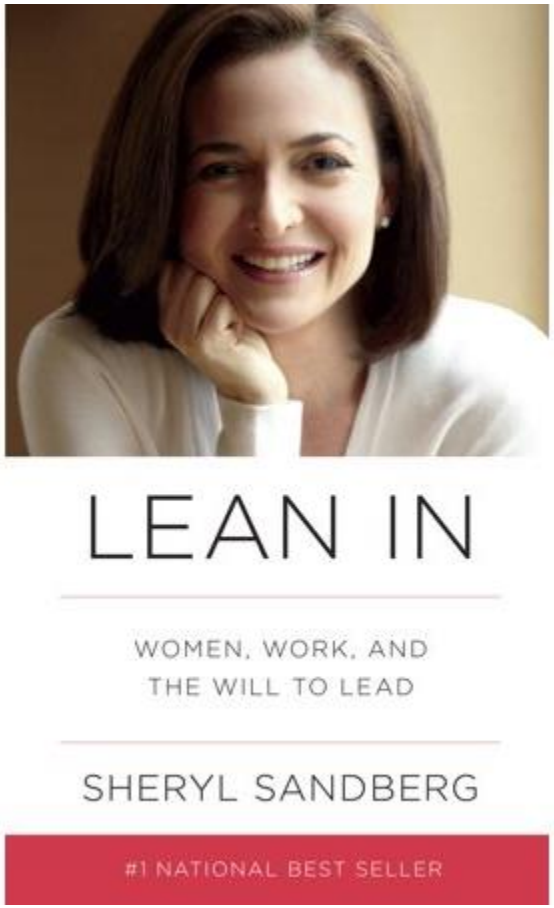
You can make society better: you need to be passionate of giving for successful leadership.

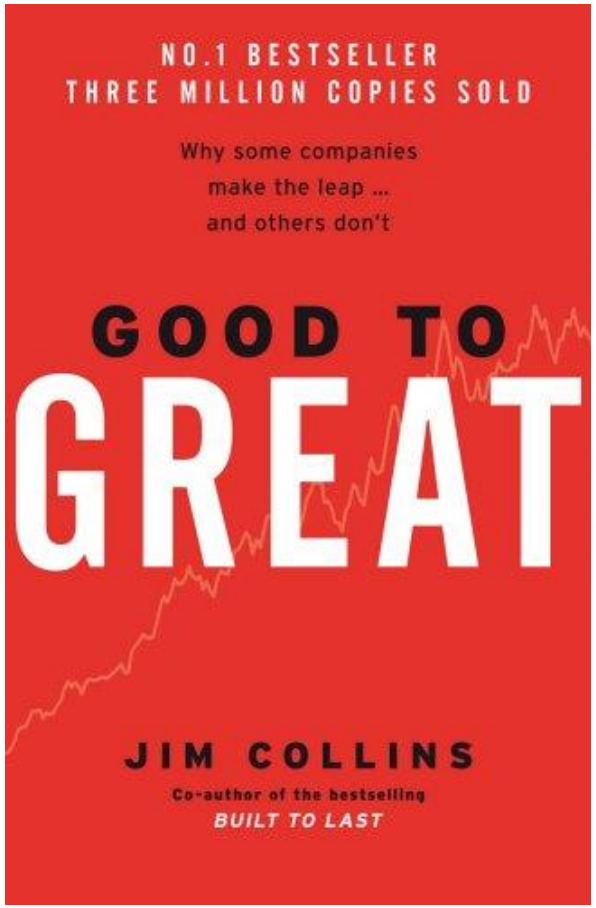
7. Experiment

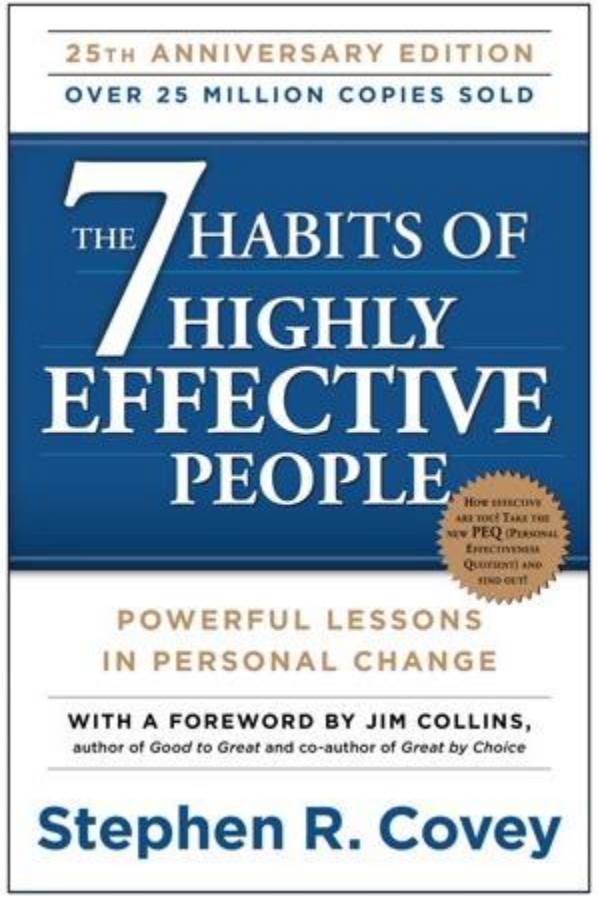
Take risks and learn to adjust yourself to any given situation.
Try to experiment in different manner every time.
That's leadership, right there.

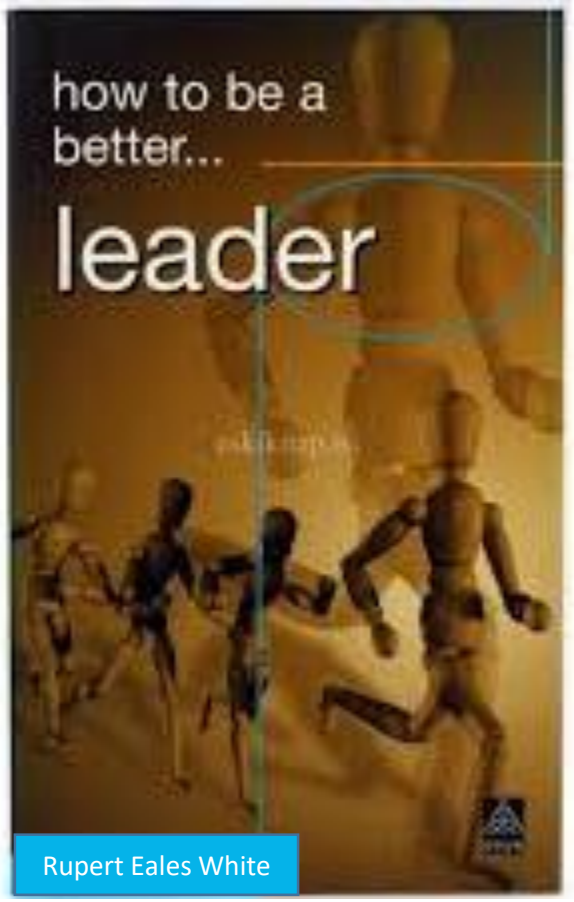
Leadership Books to get you started

women in tourism









women in tourism

women in tourism

How are Millennials changing traditional Leadership?

Millennials are…

- Challenging the hierarchy
- Valuing transparency
- Seeking for inspiration

Millennials are…

- Hungry for success
- Willing to leave job
- Wanting to have fun

women in tourism

What does it take to become a Leader in the Tourism Industry?

Be confident

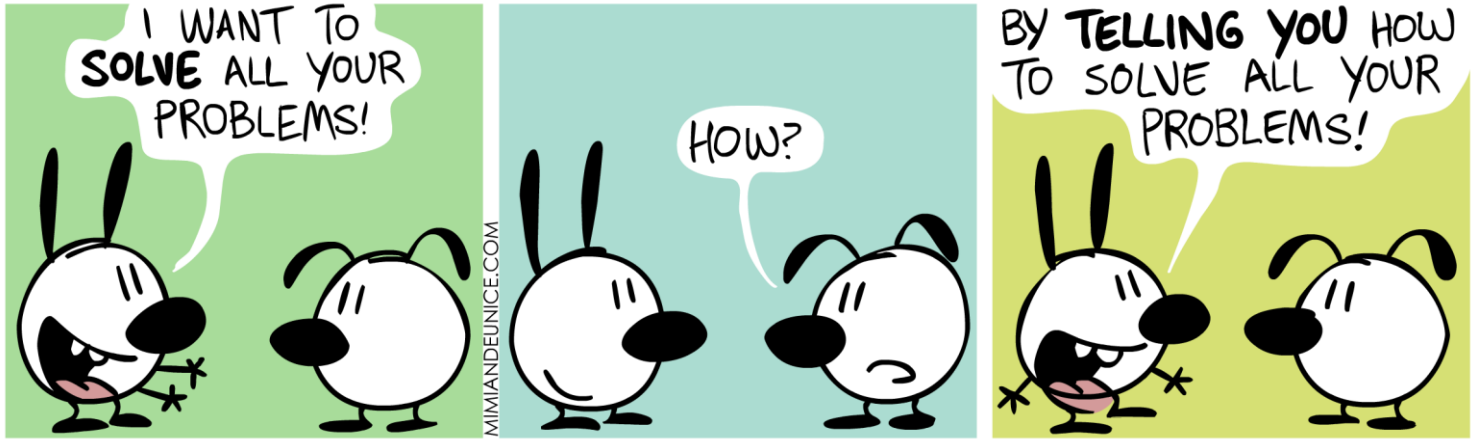
women in tourism

Be inspiring

women in tourism

Be a problem solver

women in tourism

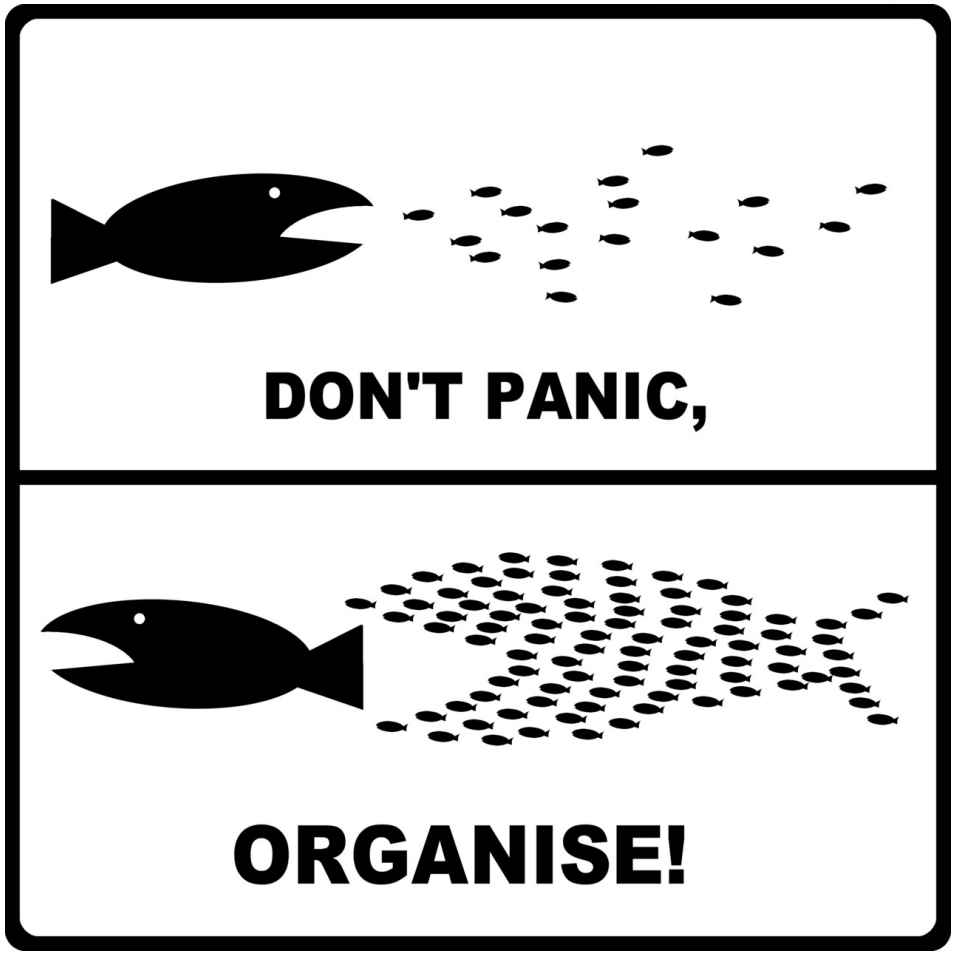


Be a good listener

women in tourism

Be organised

women in tourism



Be resilient

women in tourism

Be passionate